Dear Parents/Carers,

English Literature Mock exam

I am writing to inform you that your child will be sitting an English Literature Mock Examination (Paper 1) during their normal English lesson time in the week beginning 23rd February.

This assessment will allow students to complete an English Literature Paper 1 mock outside of the March mock examination week, ensuring that all required mock assessments are completed while minimising disruption to the wider mock timetable. Students will be seated alphabetically across 4 classrooms, and the assessment will be conducted under exam-style conditions to ensure fairness and consistency.

Students with exam access arrangements will be supported to the best of our ability during this assessment, in line with their normal provisions. While this mock will not take place in the exam hall and therefore will not fully replicate the formal exam environment, it is worth noting that Year 11 students experienced a full exam-hall mock for English Literature Paper 1 during Year 10.

The purpose of this mock is to act as a diagnostic assessment for both students and teachers. It will help identify strengths, gaps in knowledge, and areas for targeted revision in preparation for the final GCSE examinations.

If you have any questions or would like further information, please do not hesitate to get in touch.

Yours sincerely

Mrs White
